

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Contact:
Lynsie Camuso
412.370.6338
lynsie@showclix.com

SHOWCLIX VERSION 2.0 INCLUDES MORE WEB 2.0 TOOLS TO HELP MUSIC FANS FIND, TRACK & SHARE LIVE MUSIC

New features include an innovative online "Tour Tracker" tool

PITTSBURGH, PA – June 18, 2007 – Every summer, thousands of musicians hit the road to perform in front of millions of live music fans in hundreds of cities across North America – and this summer is no different. To help music fans keep track of their favorite artists as they hit the road this summer, ShowClix.com today launched version 2.0 of its website, introducing a variety of new features to help music fans find, track and share live music.

The most notable addition to ShowClix' feature list is the new "Tour Tracker" tool. Music fans registered on the site can use the "Tour Tracker" to keep tabs on their favorite musicians as they zigzag the country. To use the new feature, music fans simply enter the names of their favorite artists into their personal "Tour Tracker." ShowClix then scours the database every two hours, sending email alerts to music fans when one of the artists they're tracking announces a show in their city.

"As the ShowClix database continues to grow we want to make sure it remains easy for music fans to find and share live music," said ShowClix CEO Joshua Dziabiak. "Our new features not only make it easier to search for live music, but they also feed information directly to music fans that don't have the time to constantly search online."

To enhance music fans' experience while browsing the site, ShowClix has added several new elements to their show listings pages – a "Discuss this show" section that gives fans the opportunity to share their thoughts on an upcoming concert; a "Photos" section that displays Flickr photos tagged with an artist's name; and a "Who's Going" section that lets fans show they will be attending an event, while also helping musicians and venues gauge concert attendance.

In addition, users now have profile pages that list all of the upcoming shows they will be attending and music fans can now track a venue's show listings through an RSS feed.

To explore these new features or to learn more about ShowClix, visit www.showclix.com.

About the company: ShowClix is a live music search engine and online ticketing company created to connect musicians, venues and show promoters with the millions of live music fans across North America. The website combines an open, live music database with an online ticketing platform, giving show promoters, musicians and venues an easy, affordable way to promote their shows and sell tickets to music fans who search for, track and share live music on the site. For more information about ShowClix, visit www.showclix.com.

###

To schedule a time to speak with ShowClix CEO Joshua Dziabiak, or to setup a tour of ShowClix version 2.0, please contact Lysie Camuso at lysie@showclix.com or 412.370.6338.

